UR

UNIVERSITY OF RHODE ISLAND

The Bicentennial landmarks our nation's accomplishments and past struggles. URI is also a landmark in its own right. URI has been our home base for the past four years. It's a place where we've grown into individuals, sharpened our skills in relationships, learned the importance of an education, and where we've raised hell.

We look to ourselves to search out and sort out what we've accomplished. Each of us has goals and URI served many of us well in formulating these objectives.

We leave behind us a part of ourselves but ahead of us we bring the things that we've discovered and fostered that make us what we are today.

Changes. Building upon foundations laid by others. Reaping harvests in fields that other hands have sown. Certain ideas have grown from seedlings into tall & sturdy trees. By counting the rings around historical figures we can discern their influence. Weathering many & severe struggles, the principles of Roger Williams have endured long enough to be reaffirmed during our nation's bicentennial. A tree is known by the fruit it bears.

Of the several distinctive features that made the Colony of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations different from its contemporaries, the focal points were the political, military, commercial, agricultural, religious, & social diversity that continues to shape the uncertain destiny of the colony on the shores of Narragansett Bay.

The historic buildings in this area remain the scene of an intriguing drama of contrasts, reminders of a climactic phase of the social, economic, & cultural evolution that was and is still taking place in America.

Cleaning Brush in front of South Hall 1896 (Library Archives)

In an atmosphere of spirited debate, a Rhode Island tradition, R.I. carried on a lively experiment in democratic government. When President Lincoln signed the Morrill Land-Grant Act in 1862, a nation-wide venture began. After three decades of frustration and disappointment the legislature gave the Land-Grant college separate status by establishing the Rhode Island College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts at Kingston, now known as the University of Rhode Island.

In many ways, the University's history is a reflection of the state itself. It is a record of crises encountered, hardships weathered, and victories won.

The wallop of the 20th century has changed the size and scope of URI so dramatically that there are only a few lingering traces of the small agricultural college established in the 1890's.

However, the basic principles and purposes remain intact. The goal of a university is to take a person who is still basically only an extension of others and to develop an individual. It is no mean achievement, for individuality is the essential link toward the attainment of that for which we have always struggled — independence.

And that's what it's all about.

REGISTRATION

One thing in this world I can't stand. Lines. Two nights ago, I went to see a movie. Had to stand in line. Before that I went to the bank. Again, in line. As my Italian grandmother says, "Siempre en ligna" — always in line.

Been through four years of college and I've spent more time complaining than hours put in for homework. But I have learned something.

I am a master at standing in line. For three meals a day at the URI dining halls, countless times at the campus bank and bookstore.

Most of my expertise comes from waiting to gain entry to the Pub; long lines outside are just a taste of the confusion at the bar.

I propose a toast —: to the degree I'll be standing in line for on May 30th.

The teacher must throw his whole force into the tendency of the taught. Without real sympathy we can never teach well. Do not try to disturb the faith of any man. If you can, give him something better, but do not destroy what he has. The only true teacher is he who can convert himself, as it were, into a thousand persons at a moment's notice. The true teacher is he who can immediately come down to the level of the student and transfer his soul to the student's soul and see through and understand through his mind. Such a teacher can really teach and none else.

Watching Professor Quixote

Given that no colleagues
are left in the building,
all appointments kept except the last one
he screams, the sigh louder
than intended;

must have gotten up

wrong side
of the muse this morning,
out of ideas & cigarettes
it's time to face the long drive home.

easier than jogging & as good
for the heart.
He regards the watch
around his wrist
as though it were the face
of Sancho Panza himself,
then walks away from books
into a world with no consideration for aesthetics.

Can't find his car,
the parking lot
a sea
from which strange metallic creatures
have washed ashore to die.
Thinks he's spotted his Impala
but it's the night
he slips into,

opens a dark door
throws his papers down onto a seat which appears
out of the blue.
Not surprised at all that the key turns
he's startled at the dial's refusal to illumine the space around him;
looking for reassurance he sees the moon
fade behind a cloud.

Where is Sancho Panza

Which path to take?
An engine races.
There is noise, plenty of it
but this darkness will not budge;
the only signs
are these persistent fictions . . .
Those watching saw nothing unusual. Only a man rolling up the window
inside a black sedan confident that he's left this darkness behind him.

ALTON JONES CAMPUS

At the Environmental Education Center, the task of waking up minds young & old is done by utilizing a 2300 acre wilderness classroom; animals, streams, plants & trees are some of our finest staff members. This outdoor school is set aside for people to explore & discover the wonders of the natural world and is becoming more well-known & widely used by Rhode Islanders. A recent example of this was the W. Alton Jones Intersession Minicourses, sponsored by the Student Senate during January 12-16 on the West Greenwich campus. It was an academic success as well as a peaceful winter retreat for students and faculty. A full schedule of workshops in such rustic surroundings was literally disorienting; what with the next pack of cigarettes being a half-hour's drive away, no newspapers or television for a week, people had lost a certain amount of contact with the "outside world," more apparently with its counterpart: that level of our minds we can easily satisfy by being on campus, in cities, near shopping centers. Something about being out in the open, how our response/ability is heightened.

The winter session was, without seeking to plagiarize, something of a rebirth.

Confessions of a Dormitory Attendant

Hi. URI students know who we are. We used to be called Evening Managers. We "managed the night." How did the less elegant but more graphic title of Dormitory Attendant come into being?

It's possible that the State Department in Providence got the word that somewhere in the south of RI dwelt a large & thriving community of humanoids living in closely-packed dormitories at a place called a UNIVERSITY. The in-dorm atmosphere is surprisingly reminiscent of "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest." So people were hired to watch over these humanoids each night to make sure they didn't destroy themselves in their enthusiasm, their lust for life. Marvelous tales were brought to the ears of the wise men in Providence; when they heard of the near-world-record feats, the celebrated "keg parties" that rivaled the body-packed phone booth contests of the 1950's, the mysterious "trains" that sometimes went off the track, they were amazed. They listened with growing respect to stories of the Great Water Fights and understandably confused them with an older battle of local interest — the Great Swamp Fight. They were skeptical with regard to the story of General Burnside, who not only named a great URI dorm, but invented stubburns as well. Last year at Burnside Hall, true to prophecy, one side of the building burned.

And the tales went on. There was the one about IRVING and his dog who delivered half-sour pickles and sandwiches to starving inmates at 10:00 every night. He waged capitalist war with The Truck and The Machines. These combines in miniature were sometimes stocked with questionable edibles. They especially loved to eat quarters. Nickels and dimes were spat out. If a humanoid was lucky, a lumpy something would appear to remedy the widespread dormitory disease called The Munchies.

Frequently the humanoids would place themselves across from each other separated by a long green board. Holding a round wooden paddle in one hand, they would assume a crouched posture and with narrowed eyes and tense smiles double-whammy each other, sending a small white ball lightning — quick across the table. Sometimes the ball would be returned. This was called "ping-pong." A form of Chinese torture.

Halloween, the full moon, and Thursday nights often produced bizarre happenings. Faint strains of Moussorgsky's "Night on Bald Mountain" would play as formerly calm inmates rushed around baying at the moon. On Halloween, a man with a large plastic bag over his body was asked who he thought he was. "A giant condom, of course," came the indignant reply. A girl won a contest dressed as a large plate of spilled spaghetti and meatballs.

In the dining halls so much food was thrown that a new floor was put in. It was the color of mashed potatoes and gravy.

Our wise men in Providence thought and thought. They reasoned that Evening Managers sometimes didn't manage their evenings very well; the humanoids needed attending to so we naturally became Attendants. As the euphemisms continue, I foresee — and hereby suggest one more — why don't they just call us Zookeepers?

REBIRTH

A Prayer to Humankind

For are we not one, have we not one desire,
to heal our Mother Earth & bind her wounds?
And do we not all seek peace, even as our brother
the lordly elk upon the vast & silent plains,
to be free as the spotted eagle climbing
the laughing breast of our Father Sky,
to hear from the dark forests & flashing rivers
to the curling lip of the sea the intricate harmony
of the varied ever-changing Song of Creation?

O Humankind, are we not all brothers & sisters?
Are we not the grandchildren of the Great Mystery?
Do we not all want to love & be loved, to laugh
& to play & to work & sing & dance together?

Let us let the children out, break
the traps of fear our fathers left us,
set them free, give them trust, to grow
to seek & question, to play & dance & sing,
to build a rainbow world of endless love,
for love is life believing in itself.

Hear, O Humankind, the prayer of my heart.

excerpts from Medicine Story of the Rainbow Tribe, a poem written in 1971 dedicated to Alan Watts

In November of 1974 a group of student, faculty, staff, & community people were sitting around discussing the need in this area for a new type of growth. After about a month of clearing, a seed was planted.

It took nearly six months for the seedling to stand in sunlight; during the germination period we watered it, cared for & hoped in it. No one knew for sure what would happen. We had our own dreams but this was a group effort so — the one seed became many.

When it sprouted, a gathering of 300 was present. Here, it took shape. The plant contained a part of everyone. It grew because there was a need.

Next year there were offshoots, as each blossomed there was a gathering to celebrate the rebirth. The plants are thriving; many thanks to past, present & future gardeners.

I remember a girl who came to me at the orientation & said she was having second thoughts about coming to the week-end because she didn't know anyone else who was planning to attend. I told her that I didn't think that would be too important . . . she came. As I remember those few days with the help of video-tape & slides, she shines thru with the biggest smile. I saw her the other day; she asked how she could lend a hand with Rebirth next year.

I can't help but smile when I think back to the first week-end. The good Mother gave us all she had in stock — sun, rain, snow & wind (we almost lost the tents).

You'd think that such changes would have bummed a lot of people out. It didn't, the craziness drew us closer.

Elmer Palmetier had us dig a little hole six inches into the earth & then shared his knowledge of the dynamics that go on there. A small thing, but a lot of people will never forget it.

We spent months trying to line up Doug Henning, the newest reincarnation of the great Merlin. He was interested, said he'd come . . . he didn't . . . our own Jive Ananda, Peter Grossi, shared his yoga of dynamic apathy with us. Henning he wasn't but his version of illusion is homegrown & it made for great smiles . . .

Thanks to Rebirth, Phillip Berigan, Sam Lovejoy, Richard Valariano from the Findhorn Community, & the R.I. 2000 Lecture Series were appreciated by many of us. A very beautiful thing, to share some time with hard workers, fighting for what they believe in.

The Tai Chi workshop was magical, like seeing a slow-motion version of reality. It's becoming more & more wellknown, & rightly so, as it's not a fighting form like karate or kung fu but more of a life-giving ballet, meditation-in-motion.

The famous Love-22 graced us with his presence. Before going to his workshop we all thought he was crazy. Afterwards, we knew it. He's crazy enough to put all his time & energy into something he believes in . . . so what if it's the number 22 with its cosmic implications . . . maybe it's true, what's your obsession?

I think one of the strongest things the week-end revealed was that we're not all that different. We all sleep, eat, laugh & cry. The cold & rain made it easier to see that.

Some of us were afraid that it was going to be a religious trip. It wasn't, there were no dogmas being bought or sold. Just a fine time with some good people, some crazy weather & the funnyfaced gods in each of us.

My Love Affair With The Cigar

To the uninitiated, "The Good 5¢ Cigar" is nothing more than a cutesy-cute 19th-century presidential slogan. But to the 10,000 some-odd readers of URI's bi (soon to be tri) weekly, "The Good 5¢ Cigar" is that located, tolerated and yes, even liked, rag.

We, at any rate, would like to think that more people feel better about the Cigar, because we do give it a lot of our time. The public at large doesn't (and shouldn't) realize that Cigar people sometimes stay up all night editing the libelous scrawls submitted by J-majors.

So when at 8 a.m., some poor soul meanders into the office and asks, "Is this where I write classifieds?" sometimes the only response is a grunt from an unshaven, disgusted copy reader: "Huh? Oh yeah. Sure pal, right over there . . ."

While we feel that the Cigar has been improving over the years, there are always those who attack it for misspelling a name or misinterpreting a quote. The alleged worthlessness, or for that matter, the Cigar's worth is met by a healthy cynicism on the part of the editors.

All the while, I think, we realize that we are not godlike, Woodward and Bernstein, Redford and Hoffmann, — all of the above or some of the above.

We're none of the above; we're what this country really needs. We're The Beaco (oops) I mean, The Cigar!

FOOTBALL

W. Merquerian

W. Merguerian

It might be better just not to talk about the 1975 URI football season, and discuss this seasons' prospects. Just write the 1975 football season off as a disaster, and let's start anew. But for the records, let's go back and review some of the highlights (mostly lowlights) of the past season.

The Rams began the highly touted season, their 75th as a varsity sport at Kingston, with the ambitious motto, "The Rams will thrive in '75." The season opened against a team called the "Notre Dame of Canada," St. Mary's of Halifax, Nova Scotia. St. Mary's looked more like a Pop Warner team as the Rams trounced their Canadian opponents 33-0 at Cranston Stadium.

Rhody's true form came out the following week as they were downed by a weak Northeastern team 21-16. Then came the embarrassing debacle at Brown, as the Rams took it on the chin, 41-20. Next came homecoming day at Kingston, but the Rams disappointed 7,143 Meade Field fans, dropping a 23-14 decision to Maine.

The Ram football program hit rock bottom the following week, as URI lost to a Division II team, C.W. Post by the incredible score of 3-0. About 400 fans watched that sleeper at Meade Field. But, more was yet to come as URI dropped their fifth straight game, a 23 to 7 decision at UMass.

The team finally got on the winning track, downing Boston University 21-6. But that was to be the final win of the season and the only against an American opponent.

Rhody lost the last three games to New Hampshire, Temple, and UConn. as the season ended at 2-8 and 1-4 in the Yankee Conference. But lost among the list of scores is something that happened during the Temple game at Philadelphia, something tragic.

Ron Barlow, a freshman defensive back, collided with the Owls Jeff Stempel, who was attempted to make a pass reception. In a freak accident, Barlow's neck snapped and the 18-year-old was immediately paralyzed from the neck down.

He was rushed to Temple General Hospital where his condition was listed as critical. It was several days before Barlow began to show slight motor improvements, and was moved to Moss Rehabilitation Hospital in Philly where every day he goes through extensive exercises that may someday lead to recovery. Doctors remain cautious, but do not rule out the possibility that Barlow may be walking again.

W. Merguerian

Meanwhile, head coach Jack Gregory resigned his position. "We had great disappointment with the season just concluded," Gregory said. "Things just didn't work out for us this season." At the time of his resignation, the football players were circulating a petition asking for a removal of Gregory. His decision, however, did not stem from the players petition.

The players were not the only people to have a petition. A few weeks later, a faculty petition drawn up by professors Joel Cohen, James Findlay, and Carl Beckman, and signed by one third of the faculty, asked for the abolishment of the football program.

President Frank Newman accepted the petition but had no decision on the plans for the future of URI football until a report was submitted to him by the Budget

W. Merguerian

Task Force.

The BTF report recommended that football be continued at URI with substantial cuts (to the tune of $200,000) and slashes in several other areas, including scholarships and coaches.

After two weeks of meetings, Newman made his decision. He went along with the BTF in cutting funds, but not nearly as much as was recommended. Football was full speed ahead at URI, and the search for a new coach was to begin immediately.

In early February, URI hired Bob Griffin, a highly successful coach at Idaho State, as the new URI head mentor. Griffin, a former assistant at URI, brought with him an entirely new staff. It was like a breath of fresh air to Kingston.

URI's football squad may not fare that well this season. We must give Griffin a year or two to get going. But with all the turmoil and ill feelings behind, URI football has moved past its most tumultuous year and looks into the future, a future that can only bring improvements.

SOCCER

W. Merquerian

W. Merguerian

With the dismal play of the URI football team, the students at Kingston had one fall sport to be proud of, the exciting Ram soccer team. Rhody's boosters had their most successful season in the 15 years that soccer has been at URI.

The Rams finished the season with an overall record of 8-3-1, while finishing tied for second with Connecticut in the Yankee Conference race, just behind Vermont.

URI had an incredible six game win streak at midseason, while shutting out their opponents in five straight games. Boston College finally snapped the Rams shutout streak, but URI won the contest 9-1.

Just consider the following accomplishments of the soccer team this season:

- Outscored their opponents in goals 44-12,

- Junior goalie Bob Auletta allowed just 10 goals in 11 games, for a 0.9 goals against average. Auletta registered the five consecutive shutouts.

- Sophomore Danny McCrudden scored 15 goals and tallied six assists for 21 points. Both his point total and his goals scored were tops in the Yankee Conference for the second year in a row. He was chosen for both All New England and All Yankee Conferences.

- McCrudden scored seven goals and an assist against BC, an

W. Merguerian

alltime URI record.

— Freshman Mario Pereira scored 12 goals and added four assists in an outstanding rookie season.

The season came down to one game, November 15th against Connecticut. A win would give URI a share of the Yankee title with Vermont and a little satisfaction, despite bitter disappointment that the NCAA Selection Committee had snubbed the Rams and chosen UConn for the post-season New England tourney.

Before a record crowd of nearly 1,500 fans at the Keaney soccer field, the Rams took a 1-0 early second half lead on a goal by Pereira. UConn deadlocked the game with less than 13 minutes to play when Rody defenseman, attempting to clear the ball away from the net, kicked it off a UConn forward and the ball trickled past the Ram goalie. That's the way the game ended, tied at 1-1.

The Rams appear to be stronger again for this season. Auletta, McCrudden, and Pereira will return, along with the Rams top two defensemen Jim Buehler and Doug Tashjian.

The Rams will return 11 lettermen in all, with an upgraded schedule. URI soccer fans will be seeing some of the finest soccer being played on the collegiate level in the east.

Coach Geza Henni is one of the big reasons for URI's soccer success. He just completed his seventh season at Kingston, and five of those the Rams have finished second or higher in the Yankee Conference.

WRESTLING

Scott Pucino and the URI wrestling team enjoyed their greatest success in the history of the sport at Kingston, as the Rams swept the Yankee Conference and New England titles.

Pucino, who graduated in the spring, virtually rewrote the record books with an unbelievable four year career at Rhody. He compiled a career record of 96-14, including four Yankee Conference and New England individual titles. This past season, Scott Swept through the year undefeated, winning 32 straight matches before losing the NCAA semi-finals to Jack Weinwant of Wisconsin, who was the eventual 126-pound champion.

Because of his incredible performances, Scott was named an All-American, the first Rhody wrestler to earn such an honor. Pucino was, in fact, seeded first in the NCAA's.

URI sent six wrestlers to the NCAA championships in Tucson, Arizona, the most ever. In amazing performances at Keaney Gym, the site of the New England championships, nine Rams qualified for the finals, and six won.

Winning his second straight New England title was 177-pound Tad Sargent. He won one match in the NCAA consolation round, and finished his collegiate career with a sparkling record of 66 wins, against 36 losses and six draws.

Scott Pucino's sophomore brother Frank also represented URI at Tucson. The highlight of Frank's season came when he defeated two-time defending New England champ Sev Popilizio of BU, in the 134-pound final. He finished the season with a 16-8-1 record.

Dave Hovey, also a sophomore, finished an outstanding season with an 18-7 individual record, including dethroning the three-time New England 150-pound champion Tom Kryzak of BU in the finals. Hovey won one consolation match in the NCAAs as well.

John Gubelman, a junior college transfer, proved to be a big surprise for Rhody as he captured the 118-pound New England title. Joining the team at midseason, he compiled a 12-3 record.

The sixth New England champ for Rhody was 142-pound sophomore Mike Wilner, who ended the season with a 14-6 individual record.

Also wrestling well last season for Rhody were Steve Pizzo, Earle McQuaide, Moe Haislip, and John Staulo. All will be returning next season. The Rams lost through graduation Scott Pucino, Sargent, and John Richard.

The biggest loss of all may have been of the coach, Al Nero, who resigned at season's end. The head coach at Rhody for four years, he was named New England Coach of the Year three times.

He was the main reason for bringing URI wrestling to the level of excellence that it now enjoys. He was the main reason for the tough schedule, second to none in the east, and for the Rams ultimate successes.

Nero resigned because he will devote all his energies into his prosperous insurance business. The dynamic young coach will be sorely missed.

BASKETBALL

W. Merguerian

"Naturally, we could have done better, and we were disappointed in the results of the last two weeks of the season, but overall, I can say we're generally satisfied with the final record and look forward already to next season."

That was coach Jack Kraft summing up his feelings on the 1975-76 basketball season, a campaign that was played in two phases, with the eventual outcome a 14-12 overall record, the first winning season since 1971-72.

Through the first two thirds of the campaign, the Rams distinguished themselves nationally. They owned big victories over:

— San Francisco to win the ECAC Ocean State Classic. It was a tremendous upset, as just about everyone practically conceded the game to the nationally ranked Dons. The Rams made it look easy, winning 85-77.

— Providence College 75-73 in perhaps the most exciting game ever played between the two schools. PC, who later became NIT semi-finalists, fell to the Rams before a packed house of 11,800 fans at the Civic Center.

— Connecticut by a score of 63-60 in a heart-stopper at Keaney Gym. UConn later proved how good they really were, as they swept the New England regionals and made the NCAA east semi-finals.

— DePaul in a great finish, 71-70, finished the season in the Top Twenty and made it as far as the NCAA east finals.

The Rams, over their first 18 games, compiled an impressive 12-6 mark and were sailing along solidly in the running for a post season playoff berth and were right up there for the Yankee Conference title. Sellout crowds were piling into arenas everywhere to see Kraft's cinderella team play, and everyone who observed the Rams felt Rhody had come all the way back.

W. Merguerian

It was too good to be true. In URI's last eight games, the Rams won only two, lost their chance at post-season play and fell into a final second-place tie in the Conference with UConn.

Those last eight games were a disappointment, but if you consider the results of the season, you can't be too upset. The season before the Rams were a dismal 5-20. And with 11 of the 12 players back, the future is definitely bright for URI basketball.

The only player lost through graduation was the ever-popular Carlton Smith, who gave URI fans many great moments. But returning will be the other four starters, the entire bench, some good recruits, and Irving Chatman.

Chatman, however, will not be eligible to play until mid-February. The 6'9" forward originally signed a letter-of-intent to play last season at URI. But at the last minute he switched to Tennessee and played for the nationally ranked Volunteers. He became disenchanted there and transferred to URI last February, and will be eligible to put on a Rhody uniform this February.

Sophomore Stan Wright led the team in scoring and rebounding last season and was chosen All Yankee Conference, in addition he was selected as the top player in the state of Rhode Island. Wright averaged over 15 points a game.

W. Merguerian

The teams floor leader was Jiggy Williamson, also a sophomore, who scored 14 points a game. Jiggy was named the Most Valuable Player in the Ocean State Tourney.

Also coming back are starters Mark Cixynski and Vic Soares, with top reserves Randy Eilds and Lem Johnson.

URI announced to last season that 75-76 would be its last year in the Yankee Conference. So beginning this season, the Rams will be in the independent ranks in basketball and have upgraded their schedule tremendously.

The Rams will still play traditional New England rivals such as PC, UConn, UMass, and BC. But they have added to next seasons schedule such outstanding opponents as Michigan, the NCAA finalist and the second best team in the nation last year, Louisville, South Carolina, Davidson, St. John's, LaSalle, St. Joseph's, and Syracuse.

Two outstanding juniors emerged as stars from an otherwise unimpressive 1976 season of URI baseball. The Rams finished with a 9-13 overall record and a 2-6 mark in Yankee Conference play.

But two sluggers, Keith Perron and Bob Messier, could be matched with anybody in the conference. In fact, both juniors were named at the end of the season to the All-Yankee Conference first team.

Perron, a designated hitter, won the team batting title with a lusty .356 average. Messier was second best on the Rams with a .347 average.

Messier, a shortstop, at one time not only led the team but also the ECAC Division I and Yankee Conference players with a solid .418 average. However, he slumped in the final six games of the season.

Outfielder Bill Bartlett, who will also be returning for the 1977 season hit .400, but played in only 10 games. Nevertheless, the Yankee Conference coaches thought he was good enough to name Bartlett to the All-Conference second team.

Ed Zabalski was the fourth Ram hitter to hit over .300, alternating as a pitcher — first baseman and closing the season with a .327 average. Zabalski graduated in the spring.

Zabalski, however, tailed off in the pitching department after two years as the ace of the staff as he suffered through several losses. One of those defeats was a heartbreaking 1-0 loss to Brown despite scattering just two hits.

Dave Clark was the top Ram pitcher with a 2-1 record and an ERA of 2.62. Rick Mundy, 3-2, and Phil Dupont, 2-1, were the only two other pitchers with winning records. Jack Bannon pitched well in spots for the Rams, and had an ERA of 3.35.

The high point of the season came when the Rams defeated UMass 5-3, knocking the Minutemen out of the race for the Yankee Conference title. Other memorable moments were ten-inning victories over Bridgeport (5-4) and Providence (5-3) and a doubleheader sweep of Holy Cross, 16-9 and 6-5.

The Rams will be losing three seniors, tri-captains Zabalski, Scott Campbell and Kevin Reichler. Outfielder Campbell hit .237 and Reichler, the starting catcher, hit .163.

URI finished the Yankee Conference season tied with New Hampshire for the league's fourth spot of five teams. John Norris completed his seventh season as coach.

Past

We have to discard the past and, as one builds
 floor by floor, window by window,
 and the building rises,
 so do we keep shedding —
 first, broken tiles,
 then proud doors,
 until, from the past,
 dust falls
 as if it would crash
 against the floor,
 smoke rises
 as if it were on fire,
 and each new day
 gleams
 like an empty
 plate.
 There is nothing, there was always nothing.
 It all has to be filled with a new, expanding
 fruitfulness;
 then, down
 falls yesterday
 as in a well
 falls yesterday's water,
 into the cistern
 of all that is now without voice, without fire.
 It is difficult to get bones used
 to disappearing,
 to teach eyes
 to close,
 but we do it
 unwittingly.
 Everything was alive,
 alive, alive, alive
 like a scarlet fish,
 but time
 passed with cloth and darkness
 and kept wiping away
 the flash of the fish.
 Water water water,
 the past goes on falling
 although it keeps a grip
 on thorns
 and on roots.
 It went, it went, and now
 memories mean nothing.
 Now the heavy eyelid
 shut out the light of the eye

S. Johnson

and what was once alive
is now no longer living;
what we were, we are not.
And with words, although the letters
still have transparency and sound,
they change, and the mouth changes;
the same mouth is now another mouth;
they change, lips, skin, circulation;
another soul took on our skeleton;
what once was in us now is not.
It left, but if they call, we reply
"I am here," and we realize we are not,
that what was once, was and is lost,
lost in the past, and now does not come back.

Summary

I am pleased at having taken on so many obligations — in my life
most curious elements accumulated:
gentle ghosts which undid me,
an insistent mineral labor,
an inexplicable wind which ruffled me,
the stab of some wounding kisses, the hard reality
of my brothers,
my insistent need to be always watchful,
my impulse to be myself, only myself
in the weakness of self-pleasuring.
That is why — water on stone — my life was always singing its way between joy and obligation.

Forgotten Memories

Out of a past evoking nothing
winter comes, falls hard
a skater on the ice
first time in a year.
The figure rises,
sharpens his blades
against the cold:

when attics are cleaned & dust is wiped off
the family's photographs;
a man in his twenties
sees himself age
on sepia-toned paper;
the camera began ticking
when he was a baby,
the face now staring back belonged to a monster of seventeen dressed for high-school graduation
looking like Dracula in drag.
These faces stop when his mind does,
it zeroes in on his profile in 1984
then 2001 but the last image to bid farewell is his own, age eighty,
when all that registers on film
is background.

It takes awhile to see exactly who is posing, the earth or a man.

He continues working
then stops, sits at the desk
is soon deep in dream.
Recollections like wood
cut before the snow
stand neatly stacked
among his thoughts
to dry out, lose their springiness
so as to burn brighter
on a freezing night;
to think or write
is to force the issue,
the weather cares not
for sentiment
its storming piles up incredible wind-drifts
against the house,
who knows how deep they are

It is now the day after our last colossal, disorganization of effort which was needed to finalize the epitomisation which we call the yearbook. A word of thanks to all those who helped pull this book into reality. To Paul Brindamour, alias P.B., Bob Izzo, Felix, Mike Lapoint for his duplicating, Larry Berman for the sports copy, Ann Spruill for making life (and funding) difficult, Fred I. Barney Co. for repairing and returning our own typewriter the day after finishing for the year, the 5 cent Cigar for the use of their typewriters, and to the final group of staff who participated in the 36 hour marathon session, and to Laurie for the fine moral support and patience. Have a good year . . .

It's going to be strange day.
I woke up on the ceiling
this morning

& beneath me

my friends
were drinking tea
talking about people
who fly
in their sleep
